

Where Is Home, Daddy Bear?

Nicola O'Byrne

Evie Bear was hiding.
She didn't want to go.

"I'll miss it too," said Dad.
"We've made so many memories here."

“Why do we have to move?” asked Euie Bear.

“Well,” said Dad, “everything changes eventually. And in the beginning, change can feel sad. But it doesn’t always. If nothing changed, there would be no more birthday parties.”

Dad helped Euie pack her books in the very last box and locked the front door for the very last time.

Euie felt . . . heavy.

“Goodbye, home,” said Dad.

“Goodbye, home,”
said Euie.
